

From Global To Local

International conversations on social work and social justice

Fall Semester 2022/23

General Idea

In this online series we would like to bring together Social Work classes (students and scholars) from different countries around the world and encourage them (both scholars and students) to engage in an online discussion about current topics of global interest framed within the main theme, "From global to local – international conversations on social work."

The aim is to create an ongoing platform for international exchange and to reflect on issues which are relevant to Social Work practitioners and scholars in different geographical contexts and sociopolitical backgrounds. In doing so, we hope to gain knowledge about Social Work from a global perspective and to create a lively and stimulating international network as well as a collaborative platform for further projects.

The lectures will be continued in the spring semester 2023. The corresponding schedule will be announced in spring 2023.
